Television's Moment: Sitcom Audiences and the Sixties Cultural Revolution

von Hodenberg, Christina

Berghahn Books

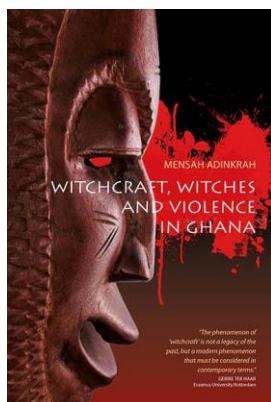

9781785335051

Paperback / 19 illus., 4 tables, bibliog., index / 342 pages

2/1/2017

$34.95

This book explores television's impact on social change by comparing three sitcoms and their audiences. The shows in focus – Till Death Us Do Part in Britain, All in the Family in the United States, and One Heart and One Soul in West Germany – centered on a bigoted anti-hero and his family. Between 1966 and 1979 they saturated popular culture, and managed to accelerate as well as deradicalize value changes and collective attitudes regarding gender roles, sexuality, religion, and race.

 9781909408326
 Paperback / Translated from the Swedish by Carl
 Lofmark / 155 pages
 January 2017
 $27.00
 catalog page: 3.3

The 26 stories included in this volume are taut, economical in structure, precisely observed, and laced with irony. They include some of the author's most popular and well known stories. Shining through all of them is Söderberg's clear-sighted affection for Stockholm, in all its moods – it is only too easy to see why Söderberg is regarded as one of the foremost chroniclers of the city.

Burying the Season
 Bajaja, Antonin
 Dufour Editions/Jantar Publishing

 January 2017
 $27.00
 catalog page:
 4.1

An affectionate, multi-layered account of small town life in central Europe beginning in the 1930s and ending in the early 21st century. Adapting scenes from Fellini's Amarcord, Bajaja's meandering narrative weaves humor, tragedy, and historical events into a series of compelling nostalgic anecdotes. In 2004, he won the Magnesia Litera Prize for prose and he was awarded the Czech State Prize for Literature in 2010.

Poetry - 'As much a manifesto as it is a book of poems, Scald is Denise Duhamel's great feminist statement—by way of pantoums and villanelles, of course. But more than a feminist, I would say that Duhamel is a humanitarian. Her words dignify the disenfranchised. Glory to Denise Duhamel for her formal ingenuity and her gleeful political imagination.' —David Trinidad.

The Thin Wall

Paperback / Pitt Poetry Series / 72 pages

02/15/2017

$15.95

catalog page: 12

Poetry - The Thin Wall—between care and resentment, protectiveness and rage, betrayal and abandonment—marks the furious, vital poems in Martha Rhodes' fifth collection. These poems enact a fierce reckoning with families rent from within or without, trailing attempts at refuge like ripped streamers from a cut-rate lot: no one escapes the creosote of The Thin Wall's collapse. Martha Rhodes has long been one of our finest poets, and now she has written her best and most moving book.' —Susan Wheeler.

Milk Black Carbon
 Kane, Joan Naviyuk
 University of Pittsburgh Press
 9780822964513
 Paperback / Pitt Poetry Series / 72 pages
 02/15/2017
 $15.95
 catalog page: 13

Poetry - 'Milk Black Carbon is at once a brilliant work of lyric art and a decoding of knowledges written 'in the dark cursive of a wolf/circling on sea ice.' Kane's is a vertiginous sensibility, chiseled into language in a precarious time, as the rising seas 'rephrase us.' She writes in English and Inupiaq Eskimo, toward a horizon of radical futurity, against nostalgia, with awareness that there is no turning back. This is a twenty-first century poetry, urgent, necessary, and of its time.' —Carolyn Forché.
